

unsaid

By Ruth Rice

i put her out
at the greyhound station silence scythed between us like a foreign tongue
last chance mommy
a tissue of regret
stuck to her shoe
neatly swallowed up
by the wheezing doors
next stop, never