

Instructional Media Resource Associate

Expand your skills with the Instructional Media Resource Associate (IMRA) certificate course for K-12 school library staff.

Created by the San Diego County Office of Education, this eight-week course is designed for school library leaders to gain effective strategies to transform libraries into 21st-century learning centers. The IMRA course includes one face-to-face training day followed by eight online modules requiring five to 10 hours to complete each week.

The IMRA course will examine:

- The role of school library staff
- Model School Library Standards
- California standards
- Digital citizenship
- Information literacy
- Collection management
- Promoting the library media center
- Technology tools

Register for the IMRA Certificate Course today!

Cost: $200 per person
Includes materials and one-year library subscription to the SDCOE Digital Content Portal (DCP)

Learn more and register at:

www.sdcoe.net/library

Facilitator:
Cindy Dunlevy
cidunlevy@sdcoe.net

IMRA graduates are saying...

"This course has given me the wings to set my standards and goals higher, concisely and productively with confidence. I honestly have never felt so empowered professionally."

"I feel like a different person than my pre-IMRA self. It's like getting my first pair of glasses; it never occurred to me that I couldn't see, until I could."

Contact: Judy Weil
jweil@sdcoe.net
619-718-4970